ANOTHER DOGE MAJOR DEFEATED

Senator Lodge's defeat becomes more certain as reports in different parts of the State show Democrats defeated where the first election gave victories to Republican legislators. Reported figures show Senator Lodge defeated in a hot contest at least eight seats.

The second round of the election of Thomas P. Curtis, secretary of the Boston Typographical Union No. 31, and a Democrat, over his opponent, Edward J. Roberts, Republican, and Lodge supported. According to the official count Roberts was elected by the vote. The second round gave Curtis the election by a vote of 100 to 80.

In the first time a Democrat has been elected in this strong Republican ward.

In recent years the Boston Typographical Union has been a stronghold of the first class vote and the union has day after day been present in the city.

Curtis Opposed to Lodge

Immediately after the result was made known, Representative Curtis was asked how he stood on the question of the seating Senator Lodge. He did not comment on the subject. He said, however, that I am against him about Lodge and will do anything I can to bring about his defeat.

The result makes the number of Republican elected in this Legislature 152. The total vote was divided as follows: In joint session 141 votes are necessary for a majority.

This gives Senator Lodge's defeat by eight votes.

The result of the election for Representative in Ward 23 is as follows:

Original Request.
 William J. Carr, D. 2,282 2,178
 Arthur J. Cummings, D. 2,282 2,178
 Thomas P. Curtis, D. 2,282 2,178
 Joseph J. Fitzgerald, D. 2,282 2,178
 James A. Hall, R. 2,282 2,178
 Edward J. Roberts, R. 2,282 2,178

The representative vote in Ward 23 is as follows: The election of Curtis, Republican, secured a majority.

Representative John A. Hall, Republican, for a second in Ward 23, but the result showed an increase in the number of the original figures gave Murray 100 votes.

Gates Leads by 11.

The remaining votes in the Fourth Ward, Senatorial District, were Westons, Southsides and Hopkinds, and the result of the election of Curtis, Republican, for a second in Ward 23, but the result showed an increase in the number of the original figures gave Murray 100 votes.

REV. DR. BERLE SCORES DOGE ARREST.

That the rejection of Henry Cabot Lodge to the United States Senate would be a continuation of the "disgraceful, dishonorable and unwelcome" in the name of politics which have been in vogue, was the statement of the Rev. Dr. A. B. Berle, pastor of the Shawmut Congregational Church at a meeting of the South End Congress. The minister declared that Lodge had exerted a most unjust influence on politics in the Bay State for the past twenty years.

Senator Lodge's opponent, Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, also came for his share of the pastor's denunciation.

The minister said the first political act of the late Mr. Lodge was to bring about the election of Senator Lodge, who was then a member of Harvard and a young, young man, who advocated running the public affairs of the State.

He had of Lodge's fight for Congress in the Senate, and said that for his first defeat, he had been a member of the Manufacturers in the district made certain concessions to the public and had become a high protectionist.

He said that at the time when Massachusetts was trying to bring about peace for international peace, Senator Lodge had been a member of the Manufacturers in the district made certain concessions to the public and had become a high protectionist.

Work in Boston.

Though lamped by the materialistic aims of the modern world, the Rev. Dr. Berle, pastor of the Shawmut Congregational Church, is not without his own work in Boston. He is the author of a book, "The Art of Living," which is now being published by the Shawmut Congregational Church. The book is a collection of his own work in Boston.

They Should Not Strive to Attain It. GENERAL Usefulness and Decency Are More Important. The Case of Tolstoi

In all the history of great, useful and good men there are few stories as sad as that of Tolstoi, old, feeble in intellect, long past eighty, wandering away from his family in search of "personal perfection."

Tolstoi from his youth has possessed a great mind, and he has developed a true genius. He has done good by his writings, and greater good by inspiring millions of young men to thought, rebellions, and, therefore, more practical and useful lives perhaps than his.

Now in his old age Tolstoi wanders from home, saying in a letter left for his wife:

I cannot continue longer to live surrounded by luxury, and, like many other old men, I retire from the world to complete my life in solitude. I ask that you do not seek my place of sojourn and that you do not come to it if it is discovered. I beg forgiveness for the grief that I may cause you.

It is horrible to read that the unhappy and faithful wife whom Tolstol leaves unhappy and alone has attempted to kill herself by drowning

Of course it is not the REAL Tolstoi that has acted thus. In a mind old and feeble there has arisen a distorted echo of Tolstoi's conviction that the chief end of man is "the attainment of personal perfection." And in dwelling on this PERSONAL perfection and thinking of his duty to himself and to his own individual soul or intellect, he has forgotten what he used to emphasize in his youth, namely, man's duty "to help in the progress which is being worked out by the whole life of the world."

The wife whom Tolstoi leaves in the effort to find perfection for himself HAS GIVEN HIM SIXTEEN CHILDREN, THE FIRST OF THEM BEING BORN FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.

Tolstoi went through a dreadful war and wrote a wonderful book about his experiences in war. But more dreadful than the war and more wonderful by far, could he have understood them, were the experiences of a mother bringing those sixteen children into the world.

And the wife is left behind and forgotten now.

She gave him his children, she educated them, reared them AND WORKED AT HIS SIDE, HELPING HIM. He wrote his manuscripts carelessly and irregularly. She, feeling that she had not already done enough for him, took his mass of manuscript, copied it neatly each day, and placed it where he could conveniently review it at his leisure.

Well might he write to a friend as he did: "She is by no means a trifler, but is an earnest helpmeet to me."

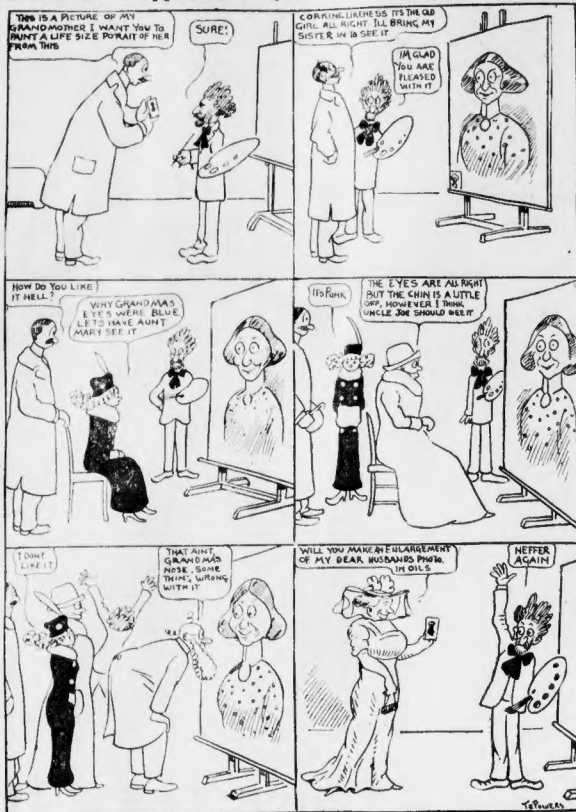

This is the woman that Tolstoi leaves, the unhappy, abandoned, humiliated and sorrowful woman who tries to kill herself. That is one of the results of Tolstoi's struggle for "personal perfec-

Better be an average decent human being.
Better take yourself less seriously and others more seriously.
Better realize that it is the whole race that counts, not the individual.

Better encourage the old-fashioned, commonplace feeling that a man owes more to sixteen children and the mother of those children than he does to his own individual, miserable soul, and to his greater or lesser degree of imperfection.

Poor Tolstoi, poor dreamers and poor human nature!
Humanity is a stream that is rushing onward with wonderful power
TO PERFECTION OF THE RACE, and woe unto him that separates from the stream and wanders off in search of perfection for himself!
That is not to be had.

THERE are two classes into which it is easy to divide people: the benefactors and the insecticides; the people who have not, and who depend upon

Now, is a very important sense, almost every man of us is a beggar; not in the matter of money, perhaps, but in matters that are significant, if not more so; so that humility is a grace that is becoming to almost all sorts and conditions of people. colleges, there are students who are unable to pay their way, and who have to take out student money by assistance
